

Chronic Conditions Essential vs Complete

Population Health Management from EVHC helps members manage chronic conditions by encouraging better behavior choices and building healthier habits. Using advanced analytics tools, we identify members with chronic conditions and provide proactive outreach through various health coaching models – ultimately saving members, and their employers, money.

What conditions does Population Health Management monitor?

Population Health Management offers two program levels – essential and complete. The six chronic conditions that are monitored under the essential program have been recognized as major cost drivers for medical spend. When employers choose the complete program, they introduce monitoring for an additional 13 conditions.
